ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF POLICE CHIEF

ANARCHIST ATTACKS GEORGE SHIPPY OF CHICAGO.

WOULD-BE ASSASSIN IS SLAIN

OVERPOWERED AFTER CHIEF'S SON IS SHOT

FIERCE FIGHT TAKES PLACE

Stranger Calls at Chief Shippy's Residence, and Is Spotted at Once as Anarchist—Whole Family Takes Part in Struggle to Eject Visitor.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Chief of Police George M. Shippy was attacked in his home on Lincoln Place at 9:30 a. m. today by a young Russian, later identified as Lazarus Averbuch, a student of presumably anarchistic tendencies. Chief Shippy killed his assailant, but not before the latter had stabbed him in the arm, had shot and dangerously wounded Harry Shippy, a son of the police official, and had wounded James Foley, a member of the police department, detailed as driver for his superior.

The younger Shippy, who was believed at first to have been mortally injured, was said at a late hour tonight to have a good chance of recovery.

The identity of the young Russian, who was instantly killed by a shot through the head, was learned late tonight. He was Lazarus Averbuch, 25 years of age, a Russian student who for three weeks has lived with two sisters at the home of Mrs. Harry Pike, No. 218 Washburn avenue, in the western portion of the city. He had been in America only three months, having come direct here from Austria, whither he fled from Kishineff, two years ago, to escape the persecution of Jews in that city.

Trace Movements.

Through information received from a sister of the dead man, the police were able to trace his movements and learn the views he held. It was learned that Chief Shippy's interference several months ago with a parade of unemployed men headed by [illegible] L. Rietman, through the streets of Chicago, coupled with the more recent announcement that Emma Goldman, the anarchist, would not be allowed to speak in public in this city, led Averbuch to attempt to remove the police head in Russian terrorist fashion.

Harry Shippy is the most severely hurt of those injured in the affray. He was shot through the breast twice, his father was stabbed in the arm, and Foley received a bullet in the wrist. Mrs. Shippy was kicked by the desperado, but her hurts are slight.

City Scoured for Anarchists.

Following the attack, squads of police were sent into the Italian districts of the city. Places known as headquarters of secret societies, suspected of anarchistic tendencies, were raided, one before midnight a score or more

WEISSE'S BID LOWEST

EXTRA APPROPRIATIONS FOR SPRINGS NEEDED.

Work on Federal Building Likely to Be Started Within Short Time.

At Washington, yesterday, the new bids for the construction of the Colorado Springs federal building were opened. These bids, which are for the building constructed of granite, complete, but cutting out all expensive and unnecessary details, are as follows: J. H. Weisse, $217,280; W. J. Turnis Co., $280,947; Atkinson Bros., $234,000; the Morrison Construction and Manufacturing company, $231,500, and Gillis Bros. Lumber and Building company, $242,734. Mr. Weisse of Omaha, to whom the contract was previously awarded, is again the low bidder.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE SCORED

CLARK ATTACKS THE LEGAL LIMB OF GOVERNMENT.

DEFENDS STATE OF FLORIDA

PEONAGE CHARGES PROVOKE VITRIOLIC UTTERANCES.

400 PENSION BILLS PASSED

Remainder of Time in House Consumed in Considering Postoffice Appropriation Bill—W. A. Smith, in Senate, Opposes Aldrich Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A resolution was passed in the House today authorizing the immigration committee to investigate charges of peonage in certain states. In the debate on that question, Mr. Clark of Florida, denounced Assistant District Attorney Russell in connection with certain prosecutions in Florida and referred sarcastically to Attorney General Bonaparte.

Mr. Clark declared that the state of Florida was prepared to answer the accounts "of peonage slavery," involuntary servitude, "brutal and inhuman treatment of laborers," and other publications which smell of the slums, and in some of the most remarkable documents emanating from the department of justice of the United States, which he charged, were absolutely false in all essential particulars. The people of Florida, he asserted, courted the fullest investigation of a matter which had been of so much injury to the fair name of their state. He predicted that those people "will come through the ordeal of investigation without the smell of fire upon their garments, and in spite of the batteries of slander which for the past year has been belching their infamous 'slumbegotten' fabrications."

Roasts Department of Justice.

The department of justice, Mr. Clark charged, had never been especially distinguished "for the legal knowledge of the alleged lawyers who are generally supposed to be housed therein," but he said that usually "something of a lawyer" had been at its head. He feared that the country had fallen into "evil times," with reference to the "big chief" of that department. Whatever may be the qualifications of Attorney General Bonaparte, he said, that official had been unfortunate in the selection of some of his inferiors to whom had been committed peonage prosecutions in Florida and other states. He referred to Attorney General Bonaparte as "this transplanted bud of alleged French nobility," who had become acquainted with a "lady bearing the euphonious cognomen of Mrs. Mary Grace Quackenboss, whose field of labor, previous to her acquaintance with the great Baltimore lawyer, was in the slums of 'east side' of 'dead old Manhattan isle.'"

He presumed therefore that Mr. Bonaparte considered "this great slum worker" a very proper person to send to Florida to regulate conditions in the south.

Attacks Assistant Russell.

Mr. Clark next turned his attention to Assistant Attorney General Charles W. Russell, who was given charge of the investigation and who, he said, quickly called to his aid Mrs. Quackenboss. "My God," he exclaimed, "what a combination. In normal times it would be an affliction upon any people to send into their midst Charles E. Russell 'a southern man and a southern Democrat,' and 'Mary Grace Quackenboss' in combination or separately."

Referring to certain prosecutions in Florida, Mr. Clark said that the capers cut by these people in the federal courts in my state "take the palm." He said he could not, at the present time, discuss either the merits of the case or "the conduct of these people," as he would like to, but as regarding Mr. Russell, he said "his presence forbids my characterizing him as he ought to be characterized, as he deserves to be designated, as I would designate him if I could do so, without offending the proprieties of his presence. 'It is a dirty bird that befouls its own nest.'"

There [illegible] a State Attorney [illegible] over a bill to deport, after the serving of their sentences, all aliens convicted of felony. The measure was defeated.

Four hundred [illegible] bills and a few other private bills [illegible] and the remainder of the time was consumed in considering the postoffice appropriation bill which it is expected will be discussed for several days.

An important bill of legislation was offered in the House by Mr. Hepburn of Iowa, through a bill increasing a tax of 50 cents per hundred shares on stock or agreements to sell.

At 5:05 the House adjourned.

GEN. PALMER PROTESTS

BUT COUNCIL DECIDES TO CARRY OUT PLANS.

Will Go Ahead With Parking Ordinance.—Hillside Wants Better Fire Protection.

Further protests against the middle parking system to be used on North Cascade avenue between Cache la Poudre street and Platte avenue were presented to the City Council at its regular meeting last night by T. J. Fletcher on behalf of Gen. W. J. Palmer, who has recently purchased considerable property on the avenue. Another protest was also sent in by Mrs. S. Y. C. Hull. On motion of Alderman John Hill the protests were denied and the ordinance authorizing the parking district was read and ordered sent to the printer by unanimous vote.

The action of the Council was based on the fact that a majority of the property owners included in the district have signed the petition for the middle parking system, according to a report of City Engineer R. H. Ashworth, who said out of a total frontage of 4,888 feet, signatures had been placed on the original petition representing 2,826 feet, and several signatures had been obtained since the petition had been presented. As to the legality of some of the signatures, the Council is standing on the advice of City Attorney W. B. Price, who has taken the stand that the burden of proof that the signatures are not legal falls to those making the protests. The ordinance will be placed upon its final passage at the next regular meeting, after which the bids for the work will be advertised.

Want Fire Station.

A delegation from the Hillside Improvement society appeared before the Council asking for a hose cart and hose as equipment for a volunteer fire department. The delegates claimed that owing to the distance of their property from the fire stations and the fact that a large number of houses can not be reached from any fire plug, the regular fire department is of very little use to them, an instance being named in which a house burned to the ground before the firemen arrived. Alderman Albin, chairman of the fire committee, said that he had been assured by Chief E. E. Baty that his department could give ample protection to the district and that volunteer stations were of little use in any event.

Branded as Nuisance.

"The chief use of the volunteer stations," said Albin, "is that they serve as a meeting place in which to sit around, smoke and play cards. Such departments do not respond to a fire call once in six years and are of very little use when they do. In fact, I think Chief Baty regards them as a nuisance and I see no reason for not dealing with him."

The matter was finally referred to the fire committee with the understanding that a test run will be made to the district by the fire department so as to show what kind of protection the residents there have.

The plat of Hastings eighth addition, comprising the territory from Tejon to Uintah streets and between Pikes Peak street and the alley on the east was approved and accepted.

To Visit Legislature.

The [illegible] of reports to the El Paso county [illegible] in the business district of Colorado City, which has been burning for some days, will be thrashed out today when Mayor Meinar and Aldermen C. T. Fertig and E. W. Frost will meet with representatives from the Colorado City council to go over the ground and make a report to the Council, which adjourned to [illegible]

MEXICAN BANK ROBBED

HAUL OF $295,000 IS MADE BY BURGLARS.

Institution Is Owned by Governor Enrique C. Creel and Luiz Terrazas.

EL PASO, Tex., March 2.—A telegram received from Chihuahua, Mex., this afternoon, says that the Banco Minero, owned by Ambassador Creel, has been robbed of $295,000 Mexican money. No particulars have been received. Officers here, however, have been ordered to watch the border closely.

The bank-notes taken are in denominations of $1,000, $100 and $50. A telegram from Governor Creel of Chihuahua was received by Chief Ponce of Juarez this afternoon, stating that a liberal reward had been offered for the capture of the bank robbers, and asked that the United States immigration authorities be requested to keep a lookout for suspicious characters, and for bills of the denominations missing.

The immigration authorities here have issued instructions to their border riders and to the officials at the stations along the line to keep a lookout for the missing bills.

An unofficial report received tonight says that the $295,000 missing from the Banco Minero at Chihuahua, was removed mysteriously from one of the vaults some time Sunday. The vault was not dynamited, according to this report, and no signs of its having been tampered with were found. It is said that several suspects have already been arrested in Chihuahua.

Local banks have received instructions from the robbed bank to look out for new bills in Mexican currency of the denominations missing. The entire sum taken, it is reported, was of recent issue.

The Banco Minero is owned by Gov. Enrique C. Creel, the ambassador of Mexico to the United States, and by Luiz Terrazas, one of the richest men of the Mexican republic.

ALIENISTS VISIT MURDERER ALIA

EFFORT MADE TO FORESTALL PLEA OF INSANITY.

MAN BELIEVED TO BE SANE

RUMORS OF RESULT OF EXAMINATION HEARD.

STATE RETAINS PHYSICIANS

Doctors Will Go on Stand When Case Is Called and Disclose Findings—Assassin Refuses to Implicate Others in His Awful Deed.

DENVER, March 2.—District Attorney George Stidger said today that he has used every means to secure from Giuseppe Alia a confession of the connection of others in the assassination of Father Leo Heinrich. The prisoner, however, stands firm in his assertion that he is not an anarchist and is not a member of any society, and that no one was connected with him in the killing of Father Leo.

The district attorney, however, expresses the opinion that Alia is not speaking the truth and believes that he is a member of some anarchistic or anticlerical society.

To forestall the plea of insanity at the trial, the district attorney has determined to have Alia thoroughly examined by alienists before the plea can be entered. With this object in view, he had four experts examine the prisoner, and tomorrow he will have several more visit him in the county jail. They will report to Mr. Stidger and he will use their evidence in the trial.

Result Unfavorable to Alia.

At the jail it is hinted that the result of the examination is unfavorable to the murderer and that each of the doctors is ready to go on the stand and testify that the slayer of the Italian priest was sane at the time of the [illegible] and is sane now.

The examination, which lasted over two hours, was conducted by Drs. Edward Delehanty, D. S. Hopkins, George A. Moleen and Howell T. Pershing. Besides the physicians there were present District Attorney George Stidger and Detective Claude Bossie and Gus Mattei, the latter two acting as interpreters.

It has been said many times that the only plea which Alia would enter when he goes to trial would be that of insanity, and in order to fight this defense the above physicians, who are recognized authorities on diseases of the brain in this city and the west, have been retained by the state to testify as experts at the trial. They will not be put on the stand unless the insanity defense is used and if it is, they will go on in rebuttal for the state.

Dodged the Murder.

During the inquiry into the mental condition of the murderer the doctors found that he possessed a remarkable memory for all dates and events leading up to the killing, even when those dates and incidents were connected with his early life, and that the only thing on which he professed ignorance was the killing itself.

Alia has all along claimed not to remember anything about the killing, but the physicians contend that this ignorance is merely assumed, and that instead of being insane the man is in reality a remarkable and dangerous criminal.

Physicians Retained by State.

The doctors having been retained by the state, of course refuse to divulge what their report will be and the only information as to what their findings will be comes from those at the jail who were present during the inquiry. Judging from what these men give out it can safely be said that the report will be extremely adverse to Father Leo's murderer, and if insanity is to be the defense, the district attorney will be prepared to combat it with testimony of the most expert character.

The Italian consul, Bevoo [illegible], was not present at the inquiry. He has expressed the wish to consult privately with specialists and conduct a personal inquiry before he makes up his mind as to just what course he will pursue. He is a [illegible] and has decided to call in Drs. Delehanty [illegible] to help him. WASHINGTON, March 2.—Commander William H. Sims, naval aide to President Roosevelt, by his own statement is responsible for the "row" over criticisms of battleship construction. At the outset of his testimony before the Senate committee on naval affairs today, he gave the committee to understand it could expect some sensations. This was done in a preliminary statement outlining what he had to do with naval officials, which he said began back of 1886, and was confined to official channels.

"Much of my service has dealt with these officials," he said, and continued:

"I began when I was 36 years old and now I am nearly 50. I put this in because I am persistently called a young man. I am old [illegible] than Admiral Capps, who has refused to me as a young man."

Continuing, he said he would have to go into unpleasant facts, such as charging officers or inventors with having made misleading statements, the secretion of official documents and the refusal of superior officers to accept suggestions of value.

Commander's Plans Upset.

The plan of Commander Sims to give the committee a [illegible] was upset immediately by Senator Tillman, who suggested that the witness be invited ed to confine his testimony to alleged faulty construction and to say nothing at this time of criticisms made of personnel or incomplete organization or other matters which are to be taken up later.

The commander asked that he be permitted to continue his statement without interruption and that the senators would not cross-examine him until he had concluded his statements in his own way. His request was ignored.

When confined to criticisms of construction, Commander Sims protested that the procedure of the committee "upset him."

"You would upset the committee if you went into all of these things at this time," said Senator Tillman.

Commander Sims said that the French allow for extra and anticipated weights and that the Germans, in designing ships, figure on a normal line with full bunkers. He said that when the American fleet arrived at Rio De Janeiro the water lines of the Connecticut class were fully a foot and a half below normal.

At the conclusion of the criticisms of the water lines, which were made in the most general terms, Admiral Capps was given permission to cross-examine the witness. The admiral did this chiefly by raising direct issue with the witness. He denied that the Georgia constructor figured "W. L." in the water line; that the logs of ships are accurate evidence, and they show that the vessels were overdrafted a foot and a half upon arrival at Rio.

The question of turret construction and the relation of the direct and uninterrupted ammunitation hoists were taken up then. The commander gave a graphic description of the open turret with the direct hoists, which pictured the dangers in such manner that caused Mr. Hale to remark: "The wonder to me is that any man came out of there alive."

Commander Sims declared that the shutters in the direct hoists do not work properly and that when sacks of powder burst, the grains of powder frequently get down to the handling room in the hold of the ship. He referred to the explosion on the Georgia, and said that twenty-odd burning grains of powder had found their way down to the handling room.

Chairman Hale said he thought it had been established that only interrupted or two-stage hoist would be used in ships built hereafter. The witness took issue with the statements made by other officers, such as Admiral Capps and Admiral Converse, that the change to the two-stage hoists is being made in the interest of speed and not for safety. He expressed the belief that the direct hoist can be made safe. He thought also that there is no broken hoist that would permit of such rapid firing as is afforded by the American ships with the direct hoist, but that the danger now is great.

The cross-examination by Admiral Capps required in more direct accusations, and positive denials without bringing out anything of importance.

James R. Garfield, who will be the temporary chairman. An adjournment will be taken as soon as he has completed his address.

The platform has already been prepared, and no changes worth mentioning is expected over any of its planks. So far, there has appeared the sign of a disagreement upon one subject of any importance. The platform will, in effect, declare for immediate revision of the tariff along prepared lines, the work to be done at a special session of the new Congress. The policies of President Roosevelt will be indorsed, and the demand will be made that there be no reaction in them, and no decrease in the vigor with which they are to be carried through.

The "able Republicans in Congress" are recognized for their standing and ability." No names will be mentioned.

Construction of the Panama canal will be approved and its speedy completion urged. The services of Secretary W. H. Taft will be approved. The establishment of a merchant marine and the creation of a strong navy will be urged.

The enactment of a currency bill, intended to meet the present needs of the country, will be demanded. The initiative and referendum will be favored in cases where the rights of the people and public property are involved. Local option in the liquor trade will be favored.

Rehabilitation of the canals of the state will be urged. The amendment of the state constitution permitting the classification of property for taxation will be indorsed. The enactment of a compulsory primary election law will be asked, and the administration of Governor Harris will be commended. It is expected, also, that the platform will include a plank relating to the colored people, but its exact nature has not been determined.

RECEIVES WEARERS OF GRAY

Mrs. J. Addison Hayes of Colorado Springs Gives Reception at New Orleans for Veterans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 2.—One of the most unique scenes of recent days in this city was that enacted at Confederate Memorial hall yesterday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock, when Mrs. J. Addison Hayes of Colorado Springs, the sole surviving member of Jefferson Davis' family, and Mrs. Cornelia Branch Stone of Galveston, Texas, president general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, stood for one hour and received old, grizzled veterans who had followed the "lost cause" as championed by President Davis.

It was a scene of deep feeling and devotion. A number of the Daughters of the Confederacy were present to assist Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Stone in receiving the veterans, and some of the leading members of the Confederate organization participated.

Before returning home from Biloxi, Miss., Mrs. Hayes, accompanied by her son, William D. Hayes, paid a visit to the old Jefferson Davis mansion, the former home of her father at Beauvoir, Miss., which is now a Confederate soldiers' home, and greeted the veterans assembled there.

Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Stone have been given an invitation by Rex, king of the carnival, to ride in the royal parade, and to participate in the river pageant to welcome the king. They have accepted and will go down the river in the morning.

SPECIAL CONVOCATION — There will be a special convocation of Colorado Springs chapter No. 8, R. A. M., this evening for work on the P. M. and M. M. degrees.

of arrests had been made. A coroner's inquest over the body of the anarchist was also started, and State's Attorney Healy announced that the March grand jury of Cooke county, which was convened today, will be given an opportunity to investigate anarchistic organizations, in an attempt to fasten responsibility for the attack upon its instigators. It was also reported that Mayor Busse intends to issue an order forbidding all street meetings, the allegation being made that such gatherings, whether of a political or religious nature, are often made the occasion for vicious attacks upon the social order.

Chief Too Quick for Assailant.

That the attempt to kill Chief Shippy resulted in failure was due largely to the policeman's quickness in anticipating the purpose of his visitor's presence. The man had twice called at the house, asked for the chief first yesterday when he was told that Mr. Shippy was at work and again early this morning when a servant informed him that the chief could not be seen before 9 o'clock. When he rang the door bell at the latter hour, the chief himself answered the call.

"As I opened the door," said Mr. Shippy, later describing the attack, "the man raised his hat and I allowed him to step into the hallway. He handed me an envelope. I glanced at it, and then the thought struck me that the man was up to some wrong. He looked like an anarchist. I grabbed his arms and called to my wife, who was in another room. 'When she ran into the hallway I said 'Mother see if this man has a revolver.'

She felt one of his back pockets and said that he had. I tried to hold him with one hand and draw my revolver with the other, but he jerked away and fell against the door. I caught him again, and while, we were struggling, my son, who was upstairs, started to my aid. He was only a few steps from the bottom of the stairs when the man fired one hand, drew his revolver and fired two shots at Harry. Then Foley, who had been summoned by my daughter, stepped into the hallway and the man shot him.

Kicked Woman to One Side.

"The anarchist kicked my wife to one side, and by this time I had secured my own revolver and both Foley and I opened fire. At my first shots which struck him in the head, he fell. But I fired three more, one in his head and two in his body. Two of Foley's shots also struck the assassin."

Policemen from all sections of the city were at once put to work on the case. Ambulances and physicians were summoned, and Foley and Harry Shippy were taken to a hospital.

The body of the anarchist was removed to a morgue. A search of the corpse failed to reveal any marks by which it might be identified. In a pocket in the man's coat, however, the police discovered a small box of lozenges, the package bearing a label inscribed "Trowbridge Confectionery company, Meadville, Pa."

Intended to Kill Self?

The lozenges were sent to a chemist for analysis, the police being of the opinion that they might contain poison. It is thought that it was the intention of the anarchist to commit suicide had he been arrested.

Harry Shippy, who is 15 years of age, is a student at Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind. He was at home because of illness, and had come to his father's aid when he heard the struggle in the hall. "The man had drawn a great knife and had lunged at my husband," said Mrs. Shippy this evening. The blade struck him in the shoulder.

The knife was drawn back ready for another blow when Harry struck the man's hand and knocked the weapon to the floor.

"The man kicked me to one side and the shots came. Harry fainted and I saw blood on his chest. He exclaimed 'Papa, I'm shot,' but he saved his father's life."

Mayor Busse Threatened.

Mayor Busse had an exciting interview with an office-seeker a few minute after he returned to his office from the Shippy home whither he hurried on being informed of the affray. The stranger who was shabbily dressed, was awaiting outside the mayor's office in the city hall and as the mayor advanced, extended his hand. The mayor, who was pale and nervous after the experience of Chief of Police Shippy, declined the grasp and eyed the man closely.

"I want a job and I am not here to ask you for anything more. But if I don't get a job there will be trouble," said the man.

The mayor immediately ordered the man out of the building, and the latter, after glaring angrily at the city executive for a moment, descended to the main floor and walked away.

Mayor Busse explained later that the individual had been calling on him and asking him for a position every day for some time past. Today, however, was the first time that he had threatened to create trouble. The incident, following so closely upon the tragedy at Chief Shippy's home, caused some excitement in the city hall and several heads of departments issued orders to their clerks and secretaries not to admit strangers to their offices on any pretext.

Dates Back to Haymarket Riot.

DENVER, March 2.—The attempted assassination of Police Chief Shippy in Chicago dates back to the Haymarket riot in the opinion of Chief of Police Michael Delaney of this city, long a personal friend of Chief Shippy.

"It was largely through Shippy's efforts," said Chief Delaney, "that anarchist organizations, responsible for the Haymarket crime, were broken up, and the members either hanged, imprisoned or driven out of the country.

"Since then Chief Shippy has been connected with every important Chicago case where anarchists have been involved, and while recent events may have led directly to the attempt upon his life this time, I believe that the affair's connection with the Haymarket riots is half of the whole thing."

Radical Members of the House of Commons Favoring Disarmament, Are Disappointed.

LONDON, Mar. 3.—The radical members of the house of commons who are agitating for a broad measure of disarmament, received scant support from the cabinet in the house this afternoon, when they introduced a resolution inviting the government to take action in support of their views.

Herbert M. Asquith, chancellor of the exchequer, was the spokesman for the government. While he sympathized with the general desire for a reduction in the growth of naval expenditure here and in other countries, he declared that the Liberal government had gone under the political circumstances as far as it safely could. Great Britain's naval position must be safeguarded against all contingency. The government believed it to be its duty to maintain the present two-power standard in the matter of naval strength.

Alluding to numerous references regarding the naval activity of Germany, Mr. Asquith recalled that the government did not view with apprehension a naval expansion which corresponded to the economical and advancing needs of that country, the growing population of which was becoming more and more dependent on over-sea sources for its food and raw material.

Continuing, Mr. Asquith insisted that the naval policy of Great Britain was purely defensive. The British government not only did not want to take the lead in increasing expenditures, but it wished to do everything in its power to prevent a new spurt in competitive shipbuilding between the great naval powers and the estimates showed that the government had no intention of building against programs which exist merely on paper.

night for that special purpose. The Colorado City council made a proposition several months ago to pay a portion of the cost, and a settlement will probably be arrived at tonight.

A Knotty Problem.

Comedy and tragedy mingled in a discussion of the junk dealers, engendered by the applications of several for licenses. The first one read was from a resident of the Fourth ward, and Alderman Hosman objected strongly on the ground that the collectors used their place of residence for storing the "trash." Ward six is recognized as the "home of the junkdealers," and Hosman's objection called forth Albin's sarcasm, and he made a motion to have the collector moved into the Sixth ward. The license was denied, the only vote in the affirmative being that of Albin. Immediately afterward an application from the Second ward was read and granted, and then Mayor Heizer startled the aldermen by stating that the applicant from the Fourth ward was in destitute circumstances, and in denying his license, the Council was literally taking the bread out of the mouths of his wife and babies.

This led to a series of marches and countermarches, motions and resolutions, explanations, and refutations, each alderman feeling uncomfortable at the thought of the "starving babies." When the matter was left to Hosman to investigate, and another application from the Eighth ward was similarly turned over to a "post," and Albin had expressed his mingled feelings with the characteristic expression "I'll be jagged," other business was taken up, and the "starving babies" were apparently forgotten.

The ordinance governing the licensing of junk dealers has been a bone of contention for some time, as it is known to be defective in many respects, and a new ordinance will probably be the result.

A petition to have the sewer between Grant avenue and Hayes street extended to the west boundary of Colorado Springs was referred to the street committee.

A letter in reference to the "Bob" Womack relief fund was referred to the finance committee.

APPROPRIATIONS CONSIDERED

City Council Estimates That $80,000 Will Be Needed for This Year's Expenses.

At a meeting of the Colorado City council last night, appropriations for the coming year were considered. The total sum needed will be in the neighborhood of $80,000, but the separate amounts for the various departments have not been definitely determined, but will probably be fixed at the adjourned meeting to be held tomorrow evening.

On account of the resignation of Broughton the city treasurer, W. H. Smith was appointed to fill the place.

As the Colorado Springs City Council promised to send a committee over to investigate the city ditch and then meet with the Colorado City council this evening to make a definite proposition to Colorado City, the council adjourned until tomorrow evening, when definite action will be taken in regard to the ditch.

The city council appropriated $200 towards the expenses of Patrolman Edward N. Wolfe, who is in Chicago taking the Pasteur treatment for a dog bite which he received while in service of the city. It is expected that the entire cost of Wolfe's trip will amount to $154.40.

An ordinance prohibiting anyone from selling liquor without a license except for sacramental, medicinal, mechanical and chemical purposes had its final reading last night, and was passed.

The city decided to plow and get ready for seeding the northeast and northwest blocks of the south side park. The Ladies' Improvement league of that section of the city has promised to seed it and supply the trees. The city will have it taken care of.

Bids for feeding the prisoners were received as follows: Van Scriber, 18 cents per meal; William Korcheval, 15 cents a meal; J. W. Duncan, 14½ cents per meal; H. S. Wall, 15 cents per meal. The matter was referred to the police committee.

The question of putting in a city scale was referred back to the committee to get definite prices on scales. The Heinken scale, which was offered, was found to be too old and small for practical use.

New Dumping Ground.

A city dumping ground was fixed on the lot between Colorado avenue and the creek, on Eleventh street, the property now belonging to D. C. Mosher, who offered it to the city for that purpose. Orders were issued that on the other places now used as dumping grounds, notices should be posted to the effect that a fine would be imposed on anyone who dumped waste matter there.

H. L. Richardson, city physician of Colorado Springs, presented a bill for $70 for the care of Mr. Anderson, a smallpox patient. As Anderson told the council that Richardson had not made a single special visit to him while he was sick, and had never been sent for by him, the bill was referred back to the committee on finances.

No action was taken in regard to buying lots from Anthony Bott to add to the cemetery. Mr. Bott's proposition was to give the city 24 lots for $2,200: $300 down and the balance at 6 per cent interest. The council expected a more reasonable figure, and for matter was laid on the table.

Regular Monthly Reports.

The regular monthly reports were read and accepted. The city clerk turned over $99.15 to the city treasurer. The city treasurer reported that there was $1,638.53 in the bank to the city's credit. The police magistrate turned over $160 to the treasurer and reported 30 cases, but, as the report did not conform with the order of the council, it was referred back for correction. City Attorney J. P. Jackson estimated the costs of the recent annexation suit against Arcadale and Grand View to be in the neighborhood of $200.

During the last month there have been eight births and five deaths, according to the city physician's report. The chief of police reported 46 arrests. The fire marshal's report showed three fires and one false alarm. Two hundred and seventy-six meals were fed by the mounted police last month.

The regular monthly bills were allowed.

"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS" GOOD

Clever Play Presented by Capable Company, Draws Large Audience Full of Fun.

Judged by its capacity to entertain and amuse, "Brewster's Millions," which was presented before a large audience at the Opera House last night, is one of the best plays seen here for a long time. It was dramatized from the novel of the same name by George Barr McCutcheon, and tells the story of a young man who accomplishes the task of spending a million dollars in a year in order to qualify himself for an inheritance of seven million. The play is full of fun, and abounds in cleverly drawn situations.

The part is generally capable, the principal part, that of Brewster, played by Robert Orer, being especially well done. The costumes are new and highly effective, and the stage settings are noteworthy, especially the one in the third act showing a storm at sea from the deck of Brewster's yacht.

CASE TO BE TRIED AGAIN

Supreme Court Reverses Decision in Barnes-Short Line Controversy

In the case of J. P. Barnes vs. the Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek District Railway, an appeal in which the decision was published by the state supreme court yesterday, the judgment of the lower court which was in favor of the Short Line was reversed. This means that the case will come before the district court again for a new trial.

The case involved a mechanics lien which Barnes tried to hold the company for grading and other materials furnished. George Nelson, one of the first contractors to engage in work on the road, sued Barnes for the sum of about $2,400.

TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1908.

MR. HAMLIN AND HIS SUPPORTERS.

THE Telegraph seems disturbed about something. It has been suggested more than once in the last few days that the newspapers should not enter into the senatorial controversy. Strangely enough these suggestions have come from Mr. Hamlin's friends, not from Mr. Hamlin. We have no doubt that they would prefer that the public should be in ignorance of the style of campaign that are waging; of the inducements that are being offered for support entirely disproportionate to any possible value of services rendered and of the arguments that are being made.

Mr. Brooks in his letter announcing his candidacy definitely promised to keep the public advised. In so far as The Gazette can, it will help him do so, in no spirit of unkindness or unfairness, however.

The Gazette is not criticising Mr. Hamlin. Hitherto it has had only kindly words for him. It has heard no word of criticism from Mr. Brooks. His public and private utterances have been quite the contrary. If not The Telegraph, at least The Telegraph's friends are living in a very fragile glass house. It is a very regrettable thing, and one which The Gazette would not have mentioned had not the occasion thus been furnished, that some of Mr. Hamlin's friends, not Mr. Hamlin himself, have been circulating exceedingly derogatory statements with regard to Mr. Brooks which are quite devoid of fact and have all the earmarks of malice. The Gazette has not descended and will not descend to any personalities. It does not believe that Mr. Brooks will. It does not propose, however, that this county shall be fought by a lavish and extravagant use of money in a matter where very little money is needed and can be expended properly, without persistently calling the attention of the people to the fact.

In passing, The Telegraph drops into a number of misstatements. It savors of fly humor when it accuses Mr. Brooks of relying upon a discarded political machine, when Mr. Hamlin is relying for support upon such eminent reform leaders as Mr. Ralph Bradfield, Mr. A. M. Hill, Mr. Joseph Schisler and Mr. F. F. Schreiber, all under the direction of the able and astute wire-puller, who has been residing at Mentone some time for his health, and to whom frantic appeals have been sent for his immediate return.

MR. HAMLIN'S COTERIE OF "REFORMERS".

Mr. Brooks has threatened no one with political oblivion. No dismissal from office or removal can be traced to his door. In his public and private utterances he has been insistent that no pledges to anyone be made in his behalf. The Telegraph knows this or should know it. It is a matter that is very easy to find out.

The Gazette is quite willing to admit Mr. Hamlin's good points and the success that he has achieved in his business career. It will do or say nothing that will detract from him any proper credit in this regard. It is urging the candidacy of Mr. Brooks because it believes that from his experience, his aptitudes and his fitness, he is better suited to fill the position to which he aspires than his rival. When Mr. Hamlin's friends, with or without his consent, use methods which The Gazette believes to be corrupting and debasing, it will unhesitatingly denounce them and will call attention to them in the most definite way.

RENEWED ANARCHIST ACTIVITY.

THE attempt at assassination of the Chicago Chief of Police by an anarchist yesterday, following only a few days after the killing of a Denver priest by a member of the same cult, again directs attention to a problem which has never been satisfactorily solved in this country or abroad. This is the question of how best to deal with anarchists and anarchy.

Judging by results it seems to us that the governments of the various nations are following the wrong tack. They proceed on the theory that the anarchist should be left undisturbed until he commits an act of violence, usually the murder of somebody in high position. They suppress anarchist meetings and demonstrations only when they actually disturb the public peace in the sense of causing a riot. At other times the anarchist is left free to carry on his propaganda, though he may be under secret espionage, and to experiment of the bomb and pistol, and strongly suspected of complicity in the assassination of some high government official. Thus it happens that in every great city there are whole colonies of anarchists, each member of which is known to the police as an avowed foe of society, and these people are permitted to carry on their work undisturbed, openly preaching violence and instilling in the minds of their converts the doctrine of hate and desperation which now and then finds expression in some bloody deed that sends a thrill of horror around the world.

It is why this should be is rather hard to understand. The time anarchy was a mere theory, a dream of diseased minds, and its bloodiest apostle was content to spin his bloody theories for himself and a few kindred spirits, but when anarchy began to put its theories into practice it became the duty of the public to protect itself. No one imagines that the occasional assassination of a high government official usually the ruler of a nation, will help to bring about the condition of freedom from governmental authority that he desires.

PROTECTION OF LAW SHOULD BE DENIED THEM.

All of the ordinary motives, such as personal hatred, jealousy, revenge, etc., which lead men to commit murder are absent from his deeds. He kills for the same reason that a rattlesnake bites—a blind, insensate fury against any living thing that crosses his path. We all know what kind of treatment mankind accords the rattlesnake, and there is no particular reason why the anarchist should be treated differently. To give these dangerous characters the protection of the law, and permit them to plan their crimes and [illegible] abuse of free speech, is simply to invite destruction.

Under our laws a known anarchist is not permitted to land in this country, and if he attempts to do so he is deported to the country whence he came. But it really makes little difference where he happens to reside, for anarchists all over the world are in constant communication, and a crime committed in one country is usually planned and directed in another. It probably would not be possible to exterminate the whole sect, but their activities could be limited by the exercise of greater vigilance on the part of governments and police officials throughout the world. No obligation rests on any people to furnish the protection of law to a set of human wolves who exist only to make war on society. Instead of being permitted to hold public meetings, circulate seditious literature through the mails and otherwise exercise the privileges of free citizenship, they should be denied all privileges, or better still kept in prison.

PRIDE SETS THE PACE.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

We are a great people because we make such a hullabaloo about the things to do; because we accomplish them to the music of the band. Our pride has set the pace, and it's our pride that keeps us up till we drop.

THE WRECKAGE OF THE MAINE.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Representative Sulzer has introduced a resolution calling upon the secretary of the navy for papers and correspondence bearing on the international status of the question and the rights of the government of the United States in the matter of raising the battleship Maine, the hulk of which now lies in the harbor of Havana. It is not very probable that Cuba would interpose any difficulties if the United States really desired to raise the Maine. The fact that this country has persistently shrunk from the undertaking has caused many persons to believe that no investigation is desired, as it might result in disclosing that charge so often made, but never proved, that the Spanish were responsible for the disaster, is wholly unfounded.

THE APPALACHIAN RESERVE.

From the Boston Trabscript.

The agricultural committee of the House of Representatives is actively engaged upon the Appalachian White Mountain forest reserve bill upon which a recent important hearing was had, bringing together men favorable to the proposition from New Hampshire to Georgia. The judiciary committee has been directed to report upon the constitutionality of the measure, a question upon which its friends agree is little doubt. There are, however, sufficient conservationists in the south and hostile sentiment in the north who must be satisfied upon this point if the bill should be reported by the committee its chances ought to be excellent. The Speaker has announced that he shall not stand in its way; in such an event, and as his opposition last year was the principal obstacle, the prospect ought to be greatly improved, supposing the temper of Congress to be practically what it was then. So far as these two sections are concerned the matter is one of the greatest urgency, and the need of prompt and favorable action is beyond question.

THE UNIONS AND THE BOYCOTT.

From the New York Evening Post.

Practically all the labor unions of New Orleans were yesterday indicted by the federal grand jury for violations of the Sherman antitrust law. This was doubtless in pursuance of the recent decision of the supreme court holding the boycott to be illegal. Such promptness and vigor in enforcing the law of the land must be highly gratifying to the President. He has declared that "whenever either corporation or labor union" defies the law, the administration will "see to it," and will pay "not the slightest heed to the position or power of the corporation or the union." Hence we may now expect from Mr. Roosevelt one of his vigorous utterances cheering on the federal prosecutors at New Orleans. And that should be only a preliminary to presidential action against Gompers and the American Federation of Labor, for defiantly maintaining a boycott of the Buck Stove company, although enjoined not to do it by a judge in the District of Columbia. With ample means placed by Congress at the disposal of the attorney general in order to prosecute violators of the Sherman act, we look for a sharp direction to Mr. Bonaparte from the President to let no guilty labor union escape. Having despised the millions of the conspirators and the malefactors, it will be a peculiar delight to Mr. Roosevelt to despise the votes of the unions.

THE KNOX POSTAL SAVINGS BILL.

From the Kansas City Star.

The postal savings plan recommended by Postmaster General Meyer and embodied in the bill introduced by Senator Knox seems to cover the soundest conclusions thus far reached by those who have studied this question.

It provides a safe depository for those having small accounts, but is also attractive to those having larger savings. It puts these deposits on an earning basis, the rate of interest being small, of course, but as large as is offered by many trust companies and certainly better than deposits without interest. But the principal consideration, from the public point of view, is that postal savings banks would be absolutely secure—as secure as the government itself.

As for the effect of such banks on the circulation and distribution of money, the bill provides for both in an effective way. The money thus deposited would be available for national banks at equitable rates of interest, the difference in the rate to banks and the rate paid by the government to depositors being, presumably, sufficient to cover the cost of operating the postal depositories. Allotments to national banks would show preference for those in the vicinity of banking postoffices, thus guarding against centralization.

Aside from all other considerations, the extensive use of postal banks by small depositors, for whom they would be especially designed, would safeguard financial institutions generally against [illegible] the temporary or sudden [illegible] of the public.

BROOKS, HAMLIN AND THE SENATORSHIP.

To the Editor of The Gazette.

With your permission I would like to say a few words on the senatorial question. During the past few months I have talked to a number of prominent Republicans from different parts of the state, and I believe it not only possible but almost a certainty that we can get the senatorship if we present the right sort of a man to the people of this state.

It is because a number of my friends insist upon sending the wrong man that I am prompted to write my views for publication.

Mr. Brooks and Mr. Hamlin seem to be our candidates. [illegible] are both good Republicans and pleasant gentlemen. But these are qualifications which nearly every Republican possesses, and they are by no means sufficient.

Honesty and a pleasing personality are not sufficient. If we expect the state to accept our candidate he must be above the ordinary. He must possess exceptional ability and be active, energetic and experienced in the large affairs of the country. It seems to me that Franklin E. Brooks fills this specification. During the four years he was in Congress, he fully demonstrated his exceptional fitness as a national legislator. He showed that he had a very wide knowledge of national affairs, and that he knew how to impress into the service of Colorado the powerful leaders in legislative and executive matters in Washington, in order that Colorado might get its share of public improvements and not be overlooked in the enactment of laws. Mr. Brooks has demonstrated that he is no ordinary man. He is widely known, both in the state and nation. He has been tried and made good.

Now, Mr. Editor, I like Mr. Hamlin as a citizen and as a neighbor, but, our choice has got to be decided upon broader grounds than personal friendship or neighborliness. The time has come when we must decide between these two respected citizens. We have got to prevent the candidate who will receive the support of the rest of the state if we expect to elect him. Mr. Hamlin is entirely without experience in national affairs. I have known him a long time and he has never demonstrated the slightest qualification for this high office beyond the fact that he is an affable gentleman who loves social functions and a good time generally, and one who is admired for his personal and social qualities. He belongs to the type of men who take things easy and follow the line of least resistance. However good his intentions may be, he would find himself unequipped to contend with the strenuous gentlemen who are conducting the affairs of the nation at Washington.

It seems to me to be utter folly for us to think for a moment of asking the state to support a candidate from our town, who is just an ordinary attorney, wholly untried and inexperienced in the study or carrying out of national policies, and whose chief claim to the honor is, that he is a good fellow and has plenty of money. This type of men abound in Colorado; almost every county could present a dozen or two of them. If we present to the people of this state such a candidate he will be swept aside as soon as his name is mentioned and some big man from some other section will get the plum. Without the slightest desire to speak unkindly of Mr. Hamlin, but solely in the interests of success, I want to protest against his indorsement by our county convention as our candidate for the United States Senate. Mr. Hamlin would undoubtedly make an efficient state officer, but in this senatorial matter we cannot afford "to send a boy to the mill."

Today's Horoscope

The stars incline, but do not compel.

Tuesday, March 3, 1908.

Even and still fate's balance hangs today
And fortune finds no end more acts to sway.

The Sun is in trine with Neptune this 62nd day. Mars and Uranus are in benefic aspect with the one-day-old moon, and Saturn is in elliptic conjunction.

A day in which chance holds an even scale, exerting no favorable influence on most matters, but letting them prosper or fail according to the factors within them. Probably better for selling than for any other transactions.

Engineering and science are under the best sign in these 24 hours.

Beware particularly today of errors in giving or taking directions.

The woman with this birthdate will benefit spiritually during the twelvemonth. If unwed, she will be courted.

The man whose birthdate is today will need to pay keen attention to his affairs. He must be on his guard against a risk.

The girl born today will be in danger from choosing her companions unwisely. She must be guarded against falls in infancy.

The boy born this day will succeed best in early life by entering the employment of others. He will be quick and clever, but inclined to thoughtlessness.

We don't see why all the people in Louisville want to see that city grow in population and enterprise when it is already bigger than Princeton, and we don't hear everybody urging an increase in population and enterprise here.

PERNICIOUS CURIOSITY OF THE P. M.

From the Pilot Rock (Ore.) Record.

Maud, daughter of "Columbia Joe," a resident of McKay Creek, returned from the mountains Wednesday and was interviewed by Postmaster Mathews.

"You look as if you had been up against old Boreas," said the gallant postmaster as he gently brushed a snowflake from Maud's shoulder.

"Yes," said Maud. "Heap snow, high mountains. Good year huckleberry, me thinks." And Maud smiled, exhibiting a wealth of ivory.

The postmaster returned the smile in a most gracious manner, and then said: "Maud, do you know, I honestly believe you are the doggondest best looking squaw I have ever seen?"

With a Pocahontas smile, Maud gave a twitch at her bright-colored blanket, revealed a pair of pigeon-toed moccasined feet, and replied: "Heap snow mountains. Good year blackberries."

"Well, how deep is the snow?" asked Postmaster Mathews.

"It is, it is up to my—my—knees," answered Maud.

A brilliant thought then occurred to the postmaster. "Maudy, just wait a minute," pleaded the postmaster, while he scurried across the street to borrow Owen Carnes' tape measure. But Miudy didn't wait.

Weather Superstitions.

The Modern Scientist Has in Recent Years Set About Disproving the "Signs" to Which the Less Progressive People of the World Have Clung for Centuries.

Frederic J. Haskin in the Dallas News.

THE morning of Candelmas day, the groundhog will creep out from his winter burrow in some sheltered bank and walk for a while on the lip of earth before his long closed door. If clouds blot out the sun, and if snow or rain be falling, he will go cheerfully to work sniffing at the hidden roots and seeds, for he knows that spring is not far [illegible] but if, when he looks, his shadow falls behind him, cast by a bright sun in a clear sky, he will scurry back into his den in alarm and close his door for six weeks more, for winter has not yet gone and there will be cold days and storms and suffering for the poorly housed. So runs the old German superstition. So believe many today, for with immigration into the new world came fancies, superstitions and mystic signs from the old. How far back some of these superstitions go none may say, possibly back to the earliest Aryan migration before the dawn of history.

There is a certain kinship among America's children, whether native or adopted, when watching animal or plant life to see what weather Mother Nature means to send next. The flock of geese flying southward in the fall and northward in the spring means the same to the child of the Puritan New Englander, to the son of the southern planter, to his negro playmate and to the Indian of the plains. For the earlier the angle-shaped argosy sails the sky, the earlier the coming season will fall. The breast bone of the goose killed in November is closely examined by rural weather prophets to this good day. If this bone be thick, so will the weather be. If it be thin, the days will pass pleasantly with little snow or ice to mar the serenity of the season. Sometimes there are spots on the bone. If the spots are red, or if the whole bone be red, a cold and stormy winter will follow, and conversely, a few spots mean a mild winter.

Students of today, anxious to probe deep into all things, have made a careful study of many of these "signs" from the animal world, and calmly and dispassionately have declared that "breast bones of geese, selected with due regard to time and condition, are contradictory, both as regards their character and the manner of their interpretation." To them the migration of birds is only a natural law exemplified, for the first chill wind suggests to the feathered tribe the delights of a clime further southward, and instinct teaches them to follow the suggestion. "That their flights are premature is apparent to close observers," says the man of science when told that the wild ducks and geese of the northern lakes have often presaged an early cold spell by going south earlier some years.

The Mole.

The mole has been termed a weather prophet by the people who love old traditions. "The Gardener's Chronicle" tells that just before winter sets in the mole digs a basin of clay in his den, a basin that will hold about a quart. This he skillfully fills with worms, mutilating them slightly so they can not escape. These are for his winter feeding, and if he builds few basins it is a sign that the winter will be mild and short. "Poor Robin's Almanack" of 1733 tells us to watch the way the hedgehog builds her home for the winter. The door to her house will be set opposite the direction from which the prevailing winter winds will blow, and from that the husbandman was invited to determine whether the winter would be mild or severe. Bears are said to lay up food of some kind when a severe winter is to be met, and they, too, are said to venture out shadow-hunting on Candlemas day, just as the groundhog does.

There is an old German saying, brought over to America and still harbored among those of German descent, that if a cat basks in the sun in February she must go again to the stove in March. Dispassionate modern science follows this assertion with the terse foot note: "The average winter shows warm periods in February and cold periods in March," and her catship, the revered of ancient Egypt, the suspected of early New England witch haters, is set at naught as a weather prophet. There is a centuries old tradition that if Tubby pass her soft forepaw above her ear in her morning ablutions that rain is sure to follow, but science mocks even this.

Ever since the first cave-man peered from his rude doorway and regarded with awe the mysterious changes of the moon, men have believed that this heavenly body exercised great control over meteorological matters, and despite the mass of evidence offered by scientists to disprove this, the idea will doubtless remain fixed for many generations yet to come. Even the great Sir John Herschel once constructed tables based on the changes of the moon and backed by very insufficient data, thinking he had discovered a connection between the weather and the moon. Later, however, he made a thorough investigation of the subject and gave conclusive proof that all his former statements were erroneous. Farmers, far inland, looking at the new moon, will say when the horns of the moon point upward, "We will have a dry month. The moon is holding up water." If the points turn down, he will say, "We will have a wet month; the moon is spilling water." So diverse are the ways of the superstitions that sailors believe the opposite to be true.

What the Moon Tells.

"It is sure to be a dry moon if it lies on its back, so you can hang your hat on its horns," runs the old Welsh saying. The Indian hunter with eagle eyes scanned the crescent moon, because he knew if the horns turned up and made points on which he could hang his powder horn, he might as well hang it there and stay at home, for the month would be dry, and the leaves in the forest, free from damp, would crackle under foot and warn his game away. If there was no upward point to which to hang his horn, he hung it over his shoulder instead, and slipped away toward the forest aisles where rains would soon deaden the footfall with damp leaves.

Many farmers in the south and in older settlements of the west note the moon in planting time and in "hog-killing" season just as their fathers before them noted it in England, Ireland or Wales. Beans must be planted in the light of the moon, potatoes in the dark. Whence came this theory none knows. It has no hint of religious superstition like the old maxim that beans to be good must always be planted on Good Friday. The southern negro, as did his master before him, still kills his hogs in the dark of the moon in the firm belief that his meat will not shrink and lose weight in the curing. This is traced to an ancient knowledge of the fact that moonbeams produce certain chemical results. Fish and some kinds of meat have been known to spoil when exposed to the rays of the moon, and the practice of the primitive slaughter house in regard to the dark of the moon is easily accounted for. "Modern industry," recently said a modern weather scientist, "is so willing to adopt any time or season for certain work if that time or season will bring better returns than others, that it most assuredly would have long ago chosen the dark of the moon as slaughter periods in all packing houses had there been anything to it."

So many of our superstitions of today are really traceable to legitimate origin. Before the calendar was perfected it was only by the constellations that many could mark the seasons, and from the early study of the stars from some Greek or Egyptian temple there came a belief in the baleful influence of the heavenly bodies that would portend to the ignorant and the superstitious evil destiny or evil weather. The modern scientist, in a fashion that seems to the sentimental really cold-blooded, has in recent years set about disproving the "signs" to which the less progressive people of the world have clung for so many centuries. A recent undertaking of the United States weather bureau, through one of its most gifted members, has been to sift by experiment and comparison all the treasured weather signs of the American people, and to point out their fallacies. Prof. Garriott has collected the many trite sayings into which, through centuries, weather lore and weather prophecies have been crystalized, and has shown the analogy with science, or the absolute ludicrousness of such beliefs.

The Weather Bureau.

The bureau shows that though many signs brought over from other lands can have little value or significance in this country, with its widely different natural conditions, they are still adhered to by those who inherited the belief in them, and will not vanish for many years. The weather bureau stands ready to offer more stable and reasonable signs, and with modern instruments, modern observatories crowning natural eminences, looks back across the centuries to the Greek Temple of the Winds, and the Egyptian pyramids where the elements were studied and the procession of the stars noted. It offers still many good "signs," though with its 200 stations throughout the country sending results of experiments and observations, and telegraph and telephone busy disseminating this knowledge to every community within reach, there is little need for "signs."

"Over a great part of the United States a steady and strong south-to-east wind will bring rain in thirty-six hours." * * * "In Texas and the southwest when the wind shifts, with strength, during a drouth, expect rain." * * * "Westerly winds are fair weather winds." So they read.

The bureau does not attempt the brave deed of almanac makers of long ago—and even today—who calmly prophesied the weather for a whole year ahead and even stated with great gravity the days on which one must buy, or sell, or travel, or marry. Though a half century has changed chaos and superstition into the serenity of things understood, and science has proved the harmonious relation of physical laws, there are a few who yet look for the casting of the groundhog's shadow, who listen for the first call of the bluebird saying spring has come, and who wait for the auspicious north wind before venturing forth on a fishing trip.

SUES NEIGHBOR FOR $25,000

John A Lewis Claims William Liptrapp Alienated His Wife's Affections— Both Wealthy

John A Lewis, a wealthy ranchman living near Ramah in Eastern El Paso county, has brought suit in the district court here for damages in the sum of $25,000 from William Liptrapp a neighboring ranchman, which he alleges alienated his wife's affections to keep her from the home to travel with him as his wife to Denver, Colorado Springs and Folland and then deserted her in Denver leaving her penniless. According to the complaint filed yesterday the defendant is worth $40,000 in his own right and is soon heir to his father's estate worth $125,000.

Lewis and his wife were married in Missouri in March 1899 and settled on land near Liptrapp's home in April 1904. That the defendant, time and frequently, to the Lewis home without the knowledge of the husband obtained by artifice the love of the wife and taught her to drink liquor are some of the allegations made by Lewis. With his knowledge he says he paid for a trip to this city. Denver and the [illegible] registered at their supposed names as Henry Johnson and wife. It is alleged finally he got rid of the woman and left her [illegible] Denver. The plaintiff says he did not know until January [illegible] Liptrapp was the man who broke up his home and [illegible] he states in the complaint.

BIENAPFL A FREE MAN

IS RELEASED FROM CUSTODY AFTER HEARING.

No One Willing to Swear That Defendant Was Man Who Shot Fehringer

As none of the witnesses summoned in the case of William Bienapfl charged with the shooting and robbing of Otto Fehringer on Wednesday, February 19, would swear that he was the man who committed the crime and in view of the fact that Otto Fehringer through [illegible] by their [illegible] Bienapfl was [illegible] the defendant was released by Justice O. P. Dunnington yesterday afternoon.

Bienapfl who has been in custody at the city jail since Friday, February 21, pleaded not guilty to the charge. Proof of his innocence was furnished by the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reinhardt, Louis Bienapfl, a brother, George Foster, the negro porter employed by Fehringer and others. It was shown that Bienapfl was in his room, 101 South Weber street, at the time the crime is supposed to have been committed. Other witnesses including F. C. Gray, Carl Albin, George Beaman and his wife, employed on the Teal ranch, and M. L. Teal failed to positively identify the prisoner as the man wanted. Neither Albin nor Gray would state positively that Bienapfl was the man who had made the inquiries concerning Fehringer at the Huerfano drug store on the night before the shooting. Adolph Fehringer stated on the stand that his brother Otto had made the statement that Bienapfl was not the man who shot him, and this settled the case as far as the prosecution was concerned. Justice Dunnington set the young man free without further delay.

MISS FARRIER IS VICTORIOUS

Supreme Court Reverses Decision Against Manitou Woman in Damage Suit

Miss Adele L. Farrier yesterday won a victory in the supreme court when the Colorado Springs & Interurban Railway company. In her suit for $30,000 damages for injuries received while a passenger on one of the cars seven years ago, the supreme court reversed the decision of the district court which was in favor of the street car company. This means that a new trial must be heard in the district court with indications for a verdict in favor of Miss Farrier.

In June 1901 while riding westward on a Manitou car, being seated on one of the first rows of the trailer, Miss Farrier received the injuries which resulted in the suit for damages. A plasterer arriving [illegible] handled [illegible] entered the trailer and sitting on the front row of seats with the end of the implement on the floor let the blade project over the [illegible] of the car. He relaxed his hold and the end of it [illegible] was snapped off by a sudden jerk of the car. The handle flew back and struck Miss Farrier on the head causing serious injuries. She was at the time a school teacher in Manitou and for several months was unable to resume her duties.

She instituted suit for $30,000 damages, the late George Gardner being her attorney. Since his death the case has been in the hands of S. H. Kinsley with D. P. Strickler the attorney for the street car company. The first jury disagreed and on the next trial Judge M. P. Seeds ordered a verdict for the street car company on the grounds that there had not been sufficient proof of negligence on the part of the company. An appeal was taken to the supreme court and it was the decision on this that was handed down yesterday.

In the case of the Stratton Cripple Creek Mining & Development company, appellant, vs. A. J. Ellison, appellee, a rehearing was denied. This gives the decision to Ellison. This was a suit growing out of an accident in the Eagle mine, in which Ellison sued for $10,000 and was awarded $4,500 damages. The suit was conducted by the Ocean Bond company.

C. M. Fogelsong May Lose $7,000 as Result of Helping Wife With Her Work

After being awarded damages in the sum of $7,000 from the Colorado Springs & Interurban Railway company for injuries sustained in a collision between his wagon and a street car, C. M. Fogelsong will have to fight the case all over again as a new trial has been granted by Justice Gilbert in the supreme court.

The information which caused the decision for a new trial was furnished by a neighbor, Mrs. [illegible] McKay, who filed an affidavit stating that she saw Fogelsong working a washing machine for his wife within a week after he had been given the decision in the district court on the allegation that he was permanently disabled by his injuries. On the strength of this Justice Gilbert issued [illegible] order for a new trial.

THOMBRIDGE CASE DECIDED

Colorado State Supreme Court Settles Matter of District Attorney's Fees

The state supreme court yesterday rendered a decision in the appeal taken from Teller county by the board of commissioners against Henry Trowbridge, former district attorney and present assistant district attorney for the Fourth judicial district. In this case two separate questions were propounded and in one the judgment of the lower court was affirmed and in the other reversed. The case was remanded.

Trowbridge brought suit in the lower court asking the court to fix his salary at either $3,000 or $4,000 and also to permit him to deduct from the fees of his office the amounts necessarily expended by him for office rent, clerk hire, etc.

The lower court held that he was entitled to a salary of $4,000 but that he was not entitled to the expense of conducting his office. It appears that prior to 1891 the district attorney for the Fourth judicial district was paid a salary of but $900 and allowed to collect and retain certain fees. The commissioners contended that by an act approved April 8, 1891, it was provided that in districts where there was only one judge only the district attorney should be paid $4,000, but that in districts where there were two judges or more then the district attorney should be allowed a salary of $5,000 and all surplus fees were to be accounted for. This was later amended so that the salary of the district attorney was fixed at $3,000 and therefore the commissioners claimed the lower court erred. The supreme court decided that the salary should be $3,000 and reversed the decision of the lower court.

But on behalf of the attorney it was insisted that the lower court erred in not allowing expenses for the conduct of office. The supreme court held that if a district attorney may maintain an office in one county that he could do the same in every county in his district, and such a rule would be extremely dangerous for then every officer would be authorized to employ clerks, stenographers, etc., at the expense of the state or county. The judgment of the lower court was affirmed en banc.

Can You Solve It?

Think of this. The commonest coal stove costs $27.50. The BEST double sheet steel gas range is but $16. Gas is a CHEAPER, CLEANER, SAFER, QUICKER fuel than coal, and with gas there is no drudgery of ashes, dirt, soot and general unsanitary conditions that go with all coal stoves. We pipe FREE to your house. Why not investigate for yourself? If coal is so good why is it so many want to trade a "High Class" coal stove for "just your cheapest gas range"? Come in and see a $15 steel gas range and you'll understand for yourself. The Gas Co., No. 107 East Kiowa. If you can't come to us, we'll gladly come to you if you

ANARCHY IS CONDEMNED

Ministers Pass Resolutions on the Death of Father Leo Heinrichs

Strongly condemning anarchistic organizations and deploring the assassination of Father Leo Heinrichs, the El Paso County Ministerial association at its regular meeting yesterday morning adopted the following resolutions proposed by the Rev. F. Evans Carrington:

Resolved, That we express our horror of the dastardly and cowardly crime perpetrated in the recent murder of Father Leo Heinrichs at the sacred altar of the church of St. Elizabeth, Denver, and condemn the toleration in our midst of organizations fostering the spirit of anarchy.

The Rev. H. A. Johnston delivered an address on "Observations in the Mission fields of Turkey, India and Korea."

BIG DEAL IS PENDING

EASTERNERS BARGAINING FOR HENRY ADNEY.

Several Large Mines May Change Hands in Cripple Creek District. Capitalists on Ground.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, March 2.—John H. Hobbs, Ramsey C. Bogy and several New Yorkers, with Louis Noble, the well-known Denver mining expert, arrived in Cripple Creek last night, and will be here for several days. It is stated on good authority that these gentlemen are here for the purpose of buying the Henry Adney mine, which is owned by Mike Burke, and which is located on the west slope of Beacon hill, surrounded by such well-known producers as the El Paso, C. K. & N. and the Old Gold. It is not known what the price to be paid is, if the mine stands the examination, but it is presumed to be about $100,000.

It is also reported that these gentlemen have unlimited capital, and that several other well-known properties are likely to change hands during the next 30 days. If these deals go through, there will be an unprecedented amount of advertising done in the eastern states, and it is believed that a persistent and consistent work will be done, which will be to the advantage of the Cripple Creek district.

The Henry Adney mine is one of the best of the smaller producers in the camp, and there is every reason to believe that the examination, which is to be made by Mr. Noble, will be satisfactory, and that the deal will go through. The mine has been shipping regularly about two cars of ore a week, and the grade has been ranging around two ounces in gold to the ton. With proper equipment, this mine can be made to produce from one to two cars of ore a day, and within a year would pay for itself.

On the 500-foot level, north from the shaft, good strong veins have been opened up, and they vary from four to seven feet in width. On the 600-foot level, south of the shaft, which is now under water because the pumps were pulled, but which can be recovered within a week's time if necessary, there is a dyke 20 feet wide which will give returns in car lots of from $8 to $25 in gold to the ton. There is any quantity of ore in sight, and if a good strong company takes hold of this mine, there is every reason to believe that it will shortly become one of the heaviest producers in the camp.

IS AGAIN ON SHIPPING LIST

Crown Point Is Being Worked by Practical Miners Who Have Ample Support.

TELLURIDE, Colo., Mar. 2.—The Crown Point, situated on Silver mountain and in sight of Ophir, is again to be put on the shipping list of the producers of ore from this district. James Lewis and Robert Skelly have secured a bond and lease on this property and have opened the trail and are now engaged in sending up supplies for an extensive operation of the property. The mineral in this claim is principally gold, silver and lead, and has produced in the past a good output of the latter. It is so situated that it can be worked to good advantage all the year round, and the portal openings are so located that snow will at no time interfere with the workings of the mine or the shipment of ore. The lessees are good practical miners and have the capital back of them that will insure uninterrupted work and shipment of ore.

NEW ORE SHOOT REPORTED

Burns Claim Is Scene of Important Discovery.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Mar. 2.—A strike is reported on that part of the Burns claim at Altman, on which the former main shaft of the Acacia Gold Mining company is located. Details are wanting, but from a reliable source it is learned that Johnson and Hastain, the lessees, have entered a new ore shoot on the main vein at a point beyond the old workings at the 350-foot level. The lessees are hoisting the ore for their initial shipment.

IS WORTH SAVING.

GOOD PRESCRIPTION AND HOW TO PREPARE IT.

Recommended Very Highly in Kidney and Bladder Troubles

This is a simple home recipe now being made known in all the larger cities through the newspapers. It is intended to check the many cases of rheumatism, kidney and bladder trouble which have made so many cripples and invalids and weaklings of some of our brightest and strongest people.

The druggists here have been notified to supply themselves with the ingredients, and the sufferer will have [illegible] The prescription is as follows: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargou, one ounce and Compound Syrup of Sarsaparilla three ounces. Mix by shaking well in a bottle. The dose is one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

Recent experiments, even in severe hospital cases, prove this simple mixture the remedy for Rheumatism, because of its positive action upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It compels these most vital organs to filter from the blood and system the waste impurities and uric acid which are the cause of rheumatism. It cleanses the kidneys, strengthens them and removes quickly such symptoms as backache, blood disorders, bladder weakness, frequent urination, painful, scalding and discolored urine. It acts as a powerful stimulant to the entire kidney and bladder structure, puts new life into them and invigorates the entire tract.

All the ingredients, states a well-known local druggist, are of vegetable extraction, making it a safe and painless prescription at any time.

Those who suffer and are accustomed to purchase a bottle of patent medicine should not let a little inconvenience interfere with making this up.

SWORDS.

The veterans, riding in their clanking carriage towards the [illegible] talked of warlike things—curious, [illegible] swords.

"The most valuable sword in the world," said the colonel, "belongs to the Khedive of Egypt. It is worth $12,000 [illegible] been handed down from father to son for 500 years.

"The hilt and scabbard of it are covered with diamonds and emeralds so thickly that the goldwork underneath [illegible] jewels are miracles of [illegible]ity.

"The sheath of [illegible] worth $5,000. The [illegible] pearls. The [illegible] Russia presented [illegible] and the Sultan of Turkey [illegible] sword [illegible] Paris [illegible]

"In this country [illegible] have not a sword worth more than $500.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

R. Sloan, Mansfield, O., writes: "My wife was given up to die with a complication of troubles, kidney trouble and dropsy. She could not lie down for fifty days, but sat propped up in bed. Change of climate did no good and I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters. She used them and from the first bottle began to get better. She has taken in all six bottles and is now as well as ever." Only 50c at all druggists.

THE FAIRY FLOWER BEDS.

"That bed of flowers was blue this morning and now it is pink. That one was white and it is now rose. The color of the leaves was yellow yesterday, and today it is purple."

"The gardener has died delightedly."

"I call him my fairy flower bed, ma'am," he said. "You see, they change color. It's a grand idea isn't it? It gives a garden such variety."

"But I don't know that any flowers changed their color."

"Oh, yes. That bed you first mentioned is the morning glorx. At sunrise it is blue, and in the afternoon it is pink.

"The one in the night or blizzard blue-rue metable. It goes through three changes in the day, from white in the morning to rose at noon and to red at sunset.

"The bed by the hedge is the lantana, a South American flower that thrives here too well here even in this fine spring weather. The lantana is yellow one day, orange the next, and red the third. Its changes are slow.

"There's other flowers, too, that change. There's the chrisanthus chamebio, that shifts from white to yellow and from yellow to red. There's the gladiolus versicolor, that's brown in the morning and blue in the evening. There's the cobea scandens, that moves slowly from greenish white to a deep violet."

WORKS WONDERS.

A Wonderful Compound Cures Piles, Eczema, Skin Itching, Skin Eruptions, Cuts and Bruises.

Doan's Ointment is the best skin treatment, and the cheapest, because so little is required to cure. It cures piles after years of torture. It cures obstinate cases of eczema. It cures all skin itching. It cures skin eruptions. It heals cuts, bruises, scratches and abrasions without leaving a scar. It cures permanently. Colorado Springs testimony proves it.

E. E. Griswold, proprietor of the Model Laundry, of 316 East Huerfano street, Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I can recommend Doan's Ointment just as highly today as when I endorsed it over seven years ago. I have been questioned on a great many occasions regarding my original statement, and it has always given me great pleasure to reiterate the facts stated. I can positively assure anyone that this remedy is an invaluable one for the purposes for which it is recommended. I am never without it, and never has an appeal to it failed to give satisfaction."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

STOCK TRADING LIGHT

AGGREGATE BUSINESS IN SECURITIES SMALL.

Buying of Shorts Advances Prices, There Being Few Offerings. Railroad Stocks Weak.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The slender aggregate of business in stocks today was mostly completed during the first hour's session of the stock exchange. The professional operators thought they saw an opportunity of extending the decline which was in progress when the market left off on Saturday, availing themselves of the commission of reports of conditions from various branches of business. The event disproved the assumption and again disclosed the insignificant proportions of the market. When operators short of stocks attempted to cover on what they conceived to be unfavorable developments, they found no offerings coming out. Their buying operation consequently advanced prices. When the announcement was made that the dividend on American Smelting had been cut from 8 per cent to a 4 per cent basis that stock rallied from its early depression to a level over Saturday's price, tending to show the agility of practiced traders in anticipating the event.

The resumption of operations in the Montana mining camp was a factor of positive strength, and came as confirmation of assertions last week regarding which there was more or less skepticism. The response of stocks immediately affected was, however, meager. It was partly due to the modifying effect on sentiment of the fall in prices of copper again today, both here and in London. The resumption of operations in the Butte region was avowedly based on the expectation of future renewal of demand for the metal rather than on any actual absorptive power of the present demand. Railroad traffic officials, however, spoke in less hopeful strain over future indications for business than has been the rule, even through the worst of the depression.

Railroad earnings reported showed the heavy inroads resulting from the depression. The gross decrease of the Pennsylvania lines operated, of over $2,000,000 for January was held down to a decrease of $600,000 in the net. Even the Southern railroad system, considered to be at a disadvantage in the opportunities for recuperation, shows a net decrease for January of only $20,000 where the gross earnings are up $5,000. This tendency was regarded as of favorable [illegible] to many bidders.

Reports of [illegible] companies for certain [illegible] of January on the Grand system, however, [illegible] to [illegible] of weakness in some of this group. The [illegible] that the [illegible] of [illegible] had [illegible] [illegible] of the [illegible] law [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE BOWERY DESECRATED

Kate Mulcahy Did It With Her Little Cigarette.

From the New York Globe.

Kate Mulcahy, who said she is 29 years of age, but refused to give her place of residence, was arrested at 1:30 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Stern of the Eldridge Street station, as she was walking down the Bowery with a cigarette in her mouth, from which she at intervals puffed smoke. Three hundred curious persons followed in her wake to see what would happen to her.

Although the anticigarette smoking ordinance introduced by "Little Tim" Sullivan is not in force, denizens of the Bowery thought that the woman would be terribly punished for her conduct. As it was, she was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct and taken to the night court.

When she was arraigned before Magistrate Kernochan and asked whether she thought it was right for her to be smoking a cigarette on the street, she replied:

"I have as much right to smoke a cigarette as you have."

"That may be," answered the magistrate, diplomatically, "but, why should you want to smoke in public?"

"I'll allow no man," declared Kate, "to put his hand on me for trying to smoke."

"Five dollars," was all Magistrate Kernochan could say in reply to that argument, and he said it.

Kate then wended her way toward the ballroom, not having the interest in the on the way she was asked by some of the curious whether she had heard of the new law in regard to women smoking in public resorts.

No, she hadn't heard of anything like that; and, further more, she thought it was a shame if such a law went into effect, denying to women privileges which were accorded to men.

As for "Little Tim" Sullivan, he has not yet been heard from in regard to this desecration of his beloved Bowery.

It has become of the old fashioned boy who believed that a horse's tail, if cut off every week, would turn into a snake? And of the boy who believed the only way to [illegible] was to [illegible]

AUCTION FURNITURE SALE at 432 N. Nevada avenue, next Thursday all day.

BIRTH—A son was born yesterday to Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Conway at their home, 30 Center street, Ivywild.

TO WED—A marriage license was issued yesterday to Clint A. Roper of Kansas City and Florence M. Dye of Colorado City.

The Fraternal Union of America will give its monthly social this evening (Tuesday) in Caledonian hall. Admission 10 cents.

RECOVERS—Clyde Roberts has recovered from an operation at Deaconess hospital two weeks ago for appendicitis sufficiently to be removed to his home.

BROTHER DIES—Charles E. Bukford of 524 North Weber street received a telegram announcing the death of his brother, James H. Bukford of New Hampshire.

NEW SHRUBS—New shrubs, including lilacs and barberry, are being planted at the corners of Acacia park. The work is being done by John Berry, under the direction of the park commission.

UNDERGOES OPERATION—Mrs. A. E. Fehlelson, 315 East Del Norte street, underwent a serious operation at Glockner Sanitarium last Sunday. She is resting easily and indications point to her recovery.

PARSONS TO SPEAK—Dean E. S. Parsons of Colorado College will lecture in Perkins hall at 8:15 o'clock tonight, instead of Prof. George L. Fiske, as announced. His subject will be "The Poetry of Matthew Arnold."

SPECIAL SERVICES—Evangelistic services will be conducted by the Rev. P. M. Fitzgerald at the M. E. church, South, every afternoon and evening this week at 2 and 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Leonard will have charge of the song services.

TO ATTEND FUNERAL—There will be an emergent communication of El Paso lodge, No. 15, A. F. and A. M., this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of giving Masonic burial to the late Brother Lewis Tullafero. Members of Pegon lodge and visiting brethren invited.

COMPULSORY DRILL—A report upon the advisability of establishing compulsory drill in the Colorado Springs High School will be submitted to the board of education tonight by a committee appointed several weeks ago to investigate the matter. Mrs. J. A. Sawyer is chairman of the committee.

ELECTS OFFICERS—Stockholders of the El Paso Ice and Coal company elected the following officers yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting in the offices of the company, 28 North Tejon street: E. J. Eaton, president; J. D. G. Crampton, vice president; C. S. Gambrill, treasurer, and M. Lewis secretary.

MARRIED—Mrs. Lottie N. Seffner of Detroit, Mich., and Fred Lotts of Buffalo, N. Y., were united in marriage last evening in the parlors of the Halcyon, 20 North Tejon street, the Rev. J. P. Lucas performing the ceremony in the presence of a few friends. Mrs. Seffner has been in the city during the winter months. The groom arrived here only a few days ago.

TO BEGIN WORK—To make arrangements for starting the construction of the Manitou and Crystal Park Scenic railway, W. C. Dotterer, one of the New York promoters, will arrive in this city within a few days. J. K. Vanatta, who has been east in the interests of the road, will return this week.

BUYS OUT PARTNER—E. S. Beeson yesterday purchased the interest of his business associate, Martin Slaughter, in the Postoffice book store, at 117 East Pikes Peak avenue. The firm name will be changed to the E. S. Beeson Stationery and Curio company. It is understood that the consideration was about $2,500.

FIFTY YEARS A MINISTER—Rev. J. P. Thomas, pastor of the Howard Presbyterian church at San Francisco, Cal., will preach at the First Presbyterian church of Colorado Springs next Sunday morning and evening. The Rev. H. A. Johnston, who has been acting as supply pastor for the last three weeks, left yesterday for Chicago. He will later go to Leavenworth, Kan., to fill an engagement.

Get in the "early bird" class

An old adage has it that the early riser preserves his health, accumulates wealth and acquires wisdom. We can start you right by getting you up in the morning. Our intermittent alarm clock defies sleep. If you are not hard to wake we have more attractive styles in alarm clocks from one to seven dollars. A "Tattoo" in the cook's room will insure your getting your breakfast on time. All clocks guaranteed.

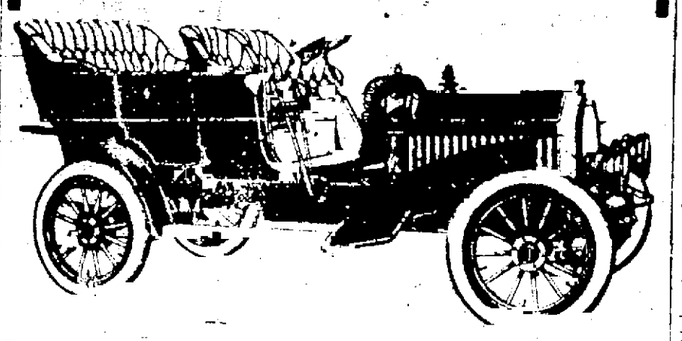
A Big Cut in Price



BUICK MODELS D. & S., $1,750 F. O. B. FACTORY.

Mr. A. R. Smith, Colorado Springs, Colo. Flint, Mich., 2-14-'08.

Dear Sir—It has become apparent to us that a very large business can be secured on a medium-sized high-grade four-cylinder car, providing the price is right. The right price can be made if the volume of business can be obtained. With this in view, we have decided to make the catalog price of Models D & S, $1,750 F. O. B. factory.

These cars are thoroughly tried out models and are being made under conditions which insure good workmanship and first-class design. Buyers who want a high-grade four-cylinder runabout or a five-passenger touring car that can be depended upon, at a moderate price, should investigate these models. A Model D car can be seen at the Miller Garage, 122 North Cascade avenue, and a demonstration arranged for.

I have two model F, two-cylinder Buick five-passenger touring cars that have been used for demonstrating, at a low price.

Reliable cars for rent at reasonable rates.
